PROGRAM

Jim Olson introduced the speaker of the day, Fred Krock, a Rossmoor resident who worked at KQED in San Francisco as well as another station in New York. When he began his career, he had a heavy mid-America accent that he quickly changed. As an announcer, he worked with classical music in its many forms.

Mr. Krock was inducted into the Radio Hall of Fame. He commented that there are no longer jobs for young people in radio in most states because most broadcasts are transmitted via satellite through local broadcast stations.

Currently, he helps with the Rossmoor radio. Another one of his favorite pastimes is being a docent for the Niles Canyon Railroad Club.
