Birthdays

Trivia, Fines, Bucks and Dollars

PP Mike Peterson, Trivia Master extraordinaire shared that there were too many fun days to choose from, so he chose trivia from ♦ This Day in History. ♦ Dave Jochman won immunity for his answer that Bob Dylan was booed on this day for playing electric guitar. A line of latecomers and pin dodgers was formed and they spun the wheel and were fined.

George Baggot was missed, as he is still recovering from surgery.

Greg Bruce had a dammit dollar for a broken air conditioner. His improv show from last week was out of this world though, so he had a happy buck for it.

Delinda Crampton shared some good news and a happy buck welcoming Heidi's husband Ron onto her team. She had a dammit dollar for her son being away at sleepaway camp because she missed him terribly. She also auctioned off an Up With People 50th Anniversary music CD, and raised $60 for the club. Jackie Carroll was the purchaser.

Darcy Dougherty had happy bucks for being with everyone, and enjoying the hot Vegas summer. She also reminded everyone to turn in their ballots for the Friday Social Night naming contest.

Larry Flashberg is going to Kazakhstan! While there he will be going to a Rotary meeting.

Dave Jochman is vertical, still in the game. He told a wonderful story about his car battery dying. Bill Collier was over and they found on YouTube where Bill's Cadillac hood switch was so they could jumpstart his truck.

Art Macarios had a happy dollar for George being home and doing well after surgery. Art was also celebrating his 54th anniversary today. Happy Anniversary!

Debbie Mitsch was back from her trip, and had fun celebrating her mother's birthday at Pismo Beach with the family.

Jim Paxton heard commentary about UNLV football prospects and updated us on some of the players we should be watching.

Mark Roy is back from his 2nd road trip. 9924 miles driven, and had happy bucks for a fabulous trip.

Valerie Salerno had a dammit dollar for being late. Happy Bucks for Bill Collier being honest and Mike Petersen being fined. She also spent time with Gerry Holinski, who has made great progress

Christine Smith bought a new Alfa Romeo. Her name is Raquelle the Romeo.

Shyloh Stobie had happy bucks for Heidi Woodruff for arranging the Project 150 project.

Heidi Woodruff had a happy dollar for everyone donating to the Project 150 drive. And she had one for her husband moving into real estate and being on Delinda's team.

Program

Board Secretary and PR Chair Lora Evans led a discussion with Leslie Fitsimmons, Ben Morse and Francisco Gracia from UNLV Rebel Media Group on their strategy for the Field of Honor.

Lora showed the crowd some of the ads and videos created by her and the team of students at UNLV for the event. Leslie then discussed the students, their work, the new campaigns that were tried for the first time, and gave the group some statistics of success. Leslie also told the story of one of the students being given a job because of the work she did, and presented as a final project, on the Field of Honor.

It was great to hear that our work with the students at UNLV led to an amazing job opportunity for one of our team members! Ben Morse, faculty member, talked about his work as coordinator/liaison between the club and the students. And Francisco Garcia gave us a peak into how he creates all of our fabulous videos. It will be exciting to see what the UNLV Rebel Media Group comes up with for Field of Honor 2020!

Adjournment

Mike Petersen won $8 in the raffle. The pot was a complete mystery. Mike then led the group in the recitation of the Four-Way Test of the Things We Think, Say or Do.

Director Christine Smith adjourned the meeting at 8:08 a.m.
