Dr. Larry Campbell spent most of his professional career working as a professor in mathematics, split equally between the College of the Ozarks near Branson, MO and Missouri State University in Springfield, MO. His first book detailed his seven-week journey, following the Missouri River from its source in Three Forks, Montana, to where it ends near St. Louis, Missouri.

Larry traveled to St. Louis today to talk with us about Lewis and Clark on the Missouri River.

The meeting ended with the Four Way Test.
