Control your Emotion, Control Your World.

August 10, 2021
5pm-6.15pm

Emotions are centered in the brain, as are your thoughts. This sets up the classic conflict of human nature: emotion vs. reason. Inability to deal with stress, anger, loss of emotional control, by any name is the cause of killings, shootings, suicides, divorce, bad political decisions, and considerable mayhem.

Conflict is inevitable; violence, in any form, is not.

Our society is a huge mixture of religions, politics, attitudes, beliefs, cultures and ethnicity. On a daily basis we are confronted with people of a different view or we remain on the other side of the street. Our short time together will begin a basis for dealing with such moments in a constructive manner. A better understanding of how the brain functions will give you greater emotional control when in those challenging moments.
