TODAY'S PROGRAM: REBECCA FRY, Rotary Down Under

Rebecca has over a decade of experience in non-profit leadership and development, running leadership programs across Australia and New Zealand. She has served in a number of senior roles including Chair of Rotaract Australia and sits on the Rotary International Strategic Planning Committee. Rebecca strongly believes in empowering people to create positive change in the world, launching numerous initiatives in this pursuit including RYLA Oceania and recently chartering a new Rotary Club (the Rotary Social Impact Network). Professionally, Rebecca works in Corporate Strategy in local government, where she brings her strategic expertise into driving positive outcomes for her local community.

LAST WEEK: ELI GOLD

Eli Gold is an enthusiastic voice for the University of Alabama, very famously with regard to college football, although he covers a number of sports. The Rotary Club of Shades Valley had Eli speak the week after we heard from Lyn Scarbrough, an Auburn journalism graduate. No one can accuse our most diligent vice president of favoritism, although she was caught in Alabama attire during the speech of Lyn Scarbrough. Eli Gold was not downcast concerning the potential effects of COVID-19 on SEC college football during the 2020 college football season. He broke some of the bad news along with the good. We learned that some 22,000+ people would be allowed into Bryant-Denny Stadium for football games, which might be about 20% of capacity. This is certainly a better result than the University of Nebraska was able to manage, as Eli Gold said Nebraska was "shutting down sports."
