A Coach Who Gets Results...

Jeff joined ActionCOACH out of a desire to help owners grow their businesses in pursuit of their dreams and to provide a positive contribution to their community. For 13 years he has helped owners grow from wearing all hats in their business to building superior teams so that the team can run the day-to-day operations while the owner focuses on growing the business marketing, financial, leadership, service delivery, etc. For the past two years Jeff's clients have rated his service at world class levels (measured by independent research firm based in London). Owners have accomplished the following in working with Jeff:

- Doubled annual revenue within first year
- Dramatically improved efficiency of businesses
- Created internal structure and processes
- Created a more empowered workforce
- Helped owners gain strategic focus
- Developed sales, recruiting and marketing processes
- Increased profits 100+% in 9 months (multi-million dollar business)

An Accomplished Business Professional

Prior to joining ActionCOACH Jeff had built a successful 26 year career in sales, sales management, sales support leadership, marketing and project management. As a Senior Vice President at two large national banks he led initiatives that achieved dramatic results, including:

- Increased sales by over 27%
- Key advisor in driving sales to consultative selling
- Led development of efficiency teams
- Raised the quality of marketing communications
- Received a national award for best practices in sales effectiveness in financial services

Pretty Darn Smart

But he doesn't pretend to know it all. As an ActionCOACH, Jeff belongs to a network of over 1,000 business coaches in 70 countries. With this network of brain power, along with his M.B.A. in Finance, his Bachelor of Arts degree in History and Political Science, over 26 years leading teams in corporate America, and over 800 hours of training as a Certified Business Coach, Jeff is skilled at breaking down complex issues into simple steps, and has the tools to help his clients succeed.

Devoted Husband, Father, and Community Member

Jeff has been married 21 years to his loving wife Nancy. They have been blessed with 2 wonderful children ages 20 and 16 who are actively engaged in sports and school where both are honor students. His daughter is attending Amherst College. Jeff has coached her soccer, softball and basketball teams. He has also actively supported his son's interest in Cub Scouts, marching bands and musical development. The Lovejoys live in Brookhaven, a suburb of Atlanta, and regularly attend Dunwoody United Methodist and Christian Science churches.

Combating Human Trafficking

Anyone can join in the fight against human trafficking. Here are 20 ideas to consider.

- Learn the indicator of human trafficking on the TIP Office's website (www.state.gov/tip-office) or by taking a training. Human trafficking awareness training is available for individuals, businesses, first responders, law enforcement, educators, and federal employees, among others.
- If you are in the United States and believe someone may be a victim of human trafficking, call the 24-hour National Human Trafficking Hotline at 1-888-373-7888 or report an emergency to law enforcement by calling 911. Trafficking victims, whether or not U.S. citizens, are eligible for services and immigration assistance.
- Be a conscientious and informed consumer. Find out more about who may have picked your tomatoes or made your clothes at ResponsibleSourcingTools.org, or check out the Department of Labor's List of Goods Produced by Child Labor or Forced Labor. Encourage companies to take steps to prevent human trafficking in their supply chains and publish the information, including supplier or factory lists, for consumer awareness.
- Volunteer and support anti-trafficking efforts in your community.
- Meet with and/or write to your local, state, and federal elected officials to let them know you care about combating human trafficking and ask what they are doing to address it.
- Be well-informed. Set up a web alert to receive current human trafficking news. Also, check out all major newscasts for more stories on the different forms of human trafficking around the world.
- Host an awareness-raising event to watch and discuss films about human trafficking. For example, learn how modern slavery exists today; watch an investigative documentary about sex trafficking; or discover how forced labor can affect global food supply chains. Alternatively, contact your local library and ask for assistance identifying an appropriate book and ask them to host the event.
- Organize a fundraiser and donate the proceeds to an anti-trafficking organization.
- Encourage your local schools or school district to include human trafficking in their curricula and to develop protocols for identifying and reporting a suspected case of human trafficking or responding to a potential victim.
- Use your social media platforms to raise awareness about human trafficking, using the following hashtags: #endtrafficking, #freedomfirst.
- Think about whether your workplace is trauma-informed and reach out to management or the Human Resources team to urge implementation of trauma-informed business practices.
- Become a mentor to a young person or someone in need. Traffickers often target people who are going through a difficult time or who lack strong support systems. As a mentor, you can be involved in new and positive experiences in that person's life during a formative time.
- Parents and Caregivers: Learn how human traffickers often target and recruit youth and who to turn to for help in potentially dangerous situations. Host community conversations with parent teacher associations, law enforcement, schools, and community members regarding safeguarding children in your community.
- Youth: Learn how to recognize traffickers' recruitment tactics, how to safely navigate out of a suspicious or uncomfortable situations, and how to reach out for help at any time.
- Faith Based communities: Host awareness events and community forums with anti-trafficking leaders or collectively support a local victim service provider.
- Businesses: Provide jobs, internships, skills training, and other opportunities to trafficking survivors. Take steps to investigate and prevent trafficking in your supply chains by consulting the Sourcing Tool and Comply Chain to develop effective management systems to detect, prevent, and combat human trafficking.
- College Students: Take action on your campus. Join or establish a university club to raise awareness about human trafficking and initiate action throughout your local community. Consider doing one of your research papers on a topic concerning human trafficking. Request that human trafficking be included in university curricula.
- Health Care Providers: Learn how to identify the indicators of human trafficking and assist victims. With assistance from local anti-trafficking organizations, extend low-cost or free services to human trafficking victims. Resources from the Department of Health and Human Services can be found on their website.
- Journalists: The media plays an enormous role in shaping perceptions and guiding the public conversation about human trafficking. Seek out some media best practices on how to effectively and responsibly report stories on human trafficking.
- Attorneys: Offer human trafficking victims legal services, including support for those seeking benefits or special immigration status. Resources are available for attorneys representing victims of human trafficking.
