CENTER for ONCOLOGY
RESEARCH & EDUCATION

Lynn M. Durham, Ed.D. is the president and CEO of the Georgia Center for Oncology Research and Education (Georgia CORE), a state-supported non-profit with the mission of advancing cancer care through partnerships and innovation. As a cancer survivor herself, she began volunteering with Georgia CORE as a member of the Survivorship Advisory Board and then served on the Georgia CORE Board of Directors from 2018 until she was hired as president and CEO in 2021.

Dr. Durham spent the majority of her career in higher education administration at the Georgia Institute of Technology (Georgia Tech), where she served as associate vice president and chief of staff to President G.P. ♦Bud♦ Peterson and later as vice president for Institute Relations where she oversaw federal, state, and local government and community relations, as well as economic development interactions with state and local governments.

She holds a Doctor of Education degree from the University of Georgia, a master♦s degree in Public Administration from Kennesaw State University, and a bachelor♦s degree from Radford University in Radford, Virginia. A graduate of the 2013 class of Leadership Georgia, Dr. Durham has been a member of the Science ATL and Midtown Alliance boards of directors. She currently serves on the nominating committees for the Ivan Allen Jr. Prize for Social Courage and the Georgia Woman of Achievement Award. She is also a member of the steering committee for the Georgia Cancer Control Consortium and the executive committees of the Georgia Society of Clinical Oncology and Georgia NCORP (NCI Community Oncology Research Program).
