Dr. Nathan DeAngelis

Dr. Nathan DeAngelis is a board-certified surgeon with advanced skills in minimally invasive techniques and substantial experience in robotic-assisted surgical procedures.

His small-town upbringing in western Pennsylvania instilled in him a strong understanding of the importance of family and community, and is a central tenet of his philosophy of patient care.

Dr. DeAngelis's specialties include anti-reflux surgery, breast biopsies and surgical treatments, cholecystectomy, gastric surgery, laparoscopic hernia repair, thyroid and parathyroid surgery, gastrointestinal surgery, skin cancer surgery and placement of feeding tubes and venous access ports.

He is a general surgeon who enjoys all facets of his work. Whether your situation commands an open or minimally invasive approach, such as laparoscopy or robotic surgery, he will be able to provide you with guidance and the best options that will suit your individual needs.
