Program:

Andrea Clarke introduced Pastor William Andrews, a founder of Mercy Drive Ministries and an elder in the Church of the Nazarene. He spoke about how struck he was with the Rotary Four-Way Test and how it was a similar idea with community development in association with churches and educational institutions. He also said that neighborhood gentrification can be an opportunity to bridge gaps between cultures. He tries to not encourage low-income people to seek hand-outs but instead seek hand-ups, and guide large churches so their well intentioned donations for aid do not become toxic.
