Virginia Area Director for the American Foundation for Suicide Prevention

She has been in her role for three years, having worked in the non-profit sector for almost 20 years. She is responsible for the implementation of fundraising events and educational programming by the Virginia Chapter and its leadership, to include the Virginia Peninsula Out of the Darkness Walk. Kathe came to AFSP with a strong personal connection to its work as the parent of a young adult who lives with the effects of severe depression. She resides in the Richmond area with her family, where she enjoys spending time with her pets and cooking as self-care activities. Kathe's personal mission is similar to the organization's to eliminate stigma and bring hope to those affected by suicide.
