Commissioner Josh Young talks about county's future

By Rachel Hoskins on Saturday, July 24, 2021

Macon County Commissioner Josh Young discussed the future of county during the meeting of the Rotary Club of Franklin Daybreak on Tuesday, July 20. Young said the county has several major projects to consider in the future including building a new high school, future tax evaluations, and planning for future growth. Currently real estate is a driving force in the growth of Macon County as well as the travel and tourism sector. Young said he would like to see a new high school constructed on the site of the current high school, keeping the students and teachers in the city limits of Franklin. He believes a new school can be built on-site while continuing to use the current facilities.

Why Rotary?

It's a great place to network, build new friendships and stay up-to-date on issues that affect the people and businesses of Macon County.
