Jordan Wolfe gave a very interesting program on the Hub City Farmer's Market last week, and Raven Logan, education coordinator, provided an overview of the programs Seed to Table and Youth Farm, which impact K through college students.

Last Week's Program

Our program last week was presented by Jordan Wolfe, Executive Director of the Hub City Farmers Market. She told us that the mission of the non-profit organization is to increase supply, demand, and access to healthy, local food for all in Spartanburg County. They operate a weekly farmers' market at Northside Harvest Park in addition to a Mobile Market serving the greater Spartanburg area, which is partially supplied by their Urban Farm. Their efforts focus on improving markets for local food, promoting positive food policies, and advocating for a sustainable local agricultural system that works for all.

Kit Jennings introduced our special musical guest, Robero Vivanco from Ecuador.
