Rotarian of the Week

Jack McManus

Jack was born on February 2 in Ft. Lauderdale, FL. He is a graduate of Coral Springs High School and Georgia Southern University.

Jack is the owner of Promotional Outfitters in Georgetown and is a member of the Promotional Products Association International and Wizard Academy. He is the founder and remains involved in King's Ridge Christian School in Alpharetta, GA and volunteers at Hobcaw Barony.

He is married to Kristina and they have one child. Jack and his family are members of Duncan Memorial Methodist Church. In his spare time he enjoys restoring homes and boats and spending time with his friends and family.

Speaker of the Week

Louise Carson, Child Recovery

Children's Recovery Center

Louise grew up in Long Branch, NJ. Her first non-profit job experience was working as an administrative assistant for the AMIB (Association for Multiple Impaired and Blind) which was a non-profit agency who provided group homes for people who were blind with multiple disabilities.

Louise attended St. Louis University from 1982-1986 where she studied communications.

From 1992 to 2014, Louise worked for the St. Louis Arc which was an agency who empowered people with developmental disabilities. Louise worked in the Job Placement Program at the Arc, which matched people with disabilities with jobs.

She met her husband David in St. Louis where they lived until 6 years ago when they moved Myrtle Beach from St. Louis and Louise was honored to accept her current position as the Executive Director of the Children's Recovery Center. Louise and David live in Myrtle Beach and love their life along the Grand Strand. They are frequently visited by their 3 sons, 2 daughters and 3 grandchildren.
