March 25, 2022: Laura Iyer, Steering Committee -- Environmental Sustainability Rotary Action Group

Our very own Laura Iyer is on the steering committee for the Environmental Sustainability Rotary Action Group's "Million Solar Panel Challenge" initiative and works on tangible ways for local Rotary clubs to get involved.

The Million Solar Panel Challenge is a global endeavor that aims to promote renewable energy by encouraging Rotarians to install one million solar panels worldwide. Through this initiative, Rotary clubs are mobilized to support solar panel installation in their communities, including their homes and businesses, and through the work they do through grants from their club, district, and Rotary International. The challenge hopes to inspire practices across communities, demonstrating Rotary's commitment to environmental stewardship. By harnessing the power of the sun, the challenge is a path towards a clean and sustainable future, making a significant step in Rotary's journey towards Protecting the Environment.
