How does NASA organize a party? They planet.

This week's joke is in honor of NASA's historic Artemis II endeavor intended to push deeper into space than any human has ever been before. Speaking of unprecedented, this week's duty roster is the lightest we've seen during my year, so I'm asking for your help to tie up loose ends. This week, we need a Greeter, Invocator, and a Can Collector. Please reach out if you're willing to take on one of these roles.

THIS WEEK - April 9, 2026

Program: George Goddard, Executive Director and Safety Officer for the Washington County Behavioral Health Board, will join us this week to discuss why "Mental Health Matters." In his role, George helps lead efforts to ensure access to critical mental health and substance-use services across our community. He will share insights on the growing importance of behavioral health and the impact it has on individuals, families, and the workforce.

Attendance: Laura Miller

Ticket Sales: Chef Tommy

Greeter: Needed

Invocator: Needed

Can Collector: Needed

SGT @ Arms: Say it ain't so... the legend himself, Randal Jedlink, is poised for a hilarious and triumphant return!

Paul Harris Fellow: Congratulations to Peter Prigge for receiving his Paul Harris +8 pin!

Program: Morgan from Discovery World stepped in for the missing STEAM Machine and didn't miss a beat. She spent time with every kid in attendance crafting, experimenting, and making the most of their time together. While a bit different than past spring break programs, the kids had a great time, and we're grateful to Morgan for making it such a memorable experience.

Split the Pot: Daily: $31

Jackpot: $72

Winner: Kaydence Roush, who complained her dad made her split the pot (again) with her sisters!
