EUGENE SOUTHTOWNE MEMBERS SHARE THEIR TALENTS IN AFRICA

By Dave Kinder

Don and Deborah Steely have been Oregonians (mostly) and life-long educators for over 40 years. They got their start in Africa by volunteering to train teachers in two Kenyan rescue centers for abused and orphaned girls.

They realized the desperate need for English instruction as the country tries to move from an economy based on subsistence farming to one based on IT, business services, telecommunication, and tourism.
