PROGRAM LAST WEEK by Jeff Baumgardner

Last week's speaker was scheduled to be North Augusta City Administrator Todd Glover. A meeting with Governor Henry McMaster took precedence and his visit with us will be rescheduled. Fortunately, Jane Page Thompson was able to slow down Rick Cram long enough to graciously come and speak to us. I may be dating myself but after reading up some on Rick I am reminded of a guy who used to be on the Ed Sullivan Show. You remember the man who used to spin the plates on thin sticks and add more until he had several all going at once and they amazingly stayed spinning without crashing to the ground? Nationally known, Rick is a leadership expert, consultant, motivational speaker and author. Locally known, he is Highfields Event Center, Progressive Show Jumping and the Aiken Music Fest. Rick spoke to us mainly about the Aiken Music Fest. This is a 6 event concert series of which there are still two coming up on September 8 (Dangermuffin with special guest Under the Sonar) and October 20 (group to be announced). These are to be held at the Highfields Event Center from 7-11pm. No tickets needed. There is only a parking fee of $10 per carload. Beer and Food Trucks will be onsite. Aiken is a diverse city with a broad menu of events and there is always something going on. Thank you to Rick for providing a few more options that help make Aiken a great place to live.
