PROGRAM LAST WEEK by Jeff Baumgardner

This past week we had the pleasure of Marti Healey speaking to our group. Now I must admit that I take the "Ostrich Approach" to newspapers and television news. I believe in the old adage that "No news is good news". This probably explains why I hang on every word Bill Tucker shares with us each week. The few times I pick up a newspaper it is a castoff from somebody else. First I check to see if they did the crossword. Next I glance at the sports page. Finally flip to the obituaries to see if I know anybody there. I have reached the point in life and business where this has become relevant to me.

This being the case I did what all 21st century men of enlightenment do and

"Googled" Marti Healy prior to this past week's meeting. This began my trip down the rabbit trail leading me from one column to another. There were so many great places to stop, pause and reflect before running to the next. Right now my favorite is "Shopping Cart Friends". Being in the senior care business as I am, this struck a chord in me that resonates with so many people I work with.

Marti said that "Writers are astonished by nothing" then proceeded to share her spider story with us. She is the author of 7 books and numerous columns and articles. I like Marti Healey's writing. I like that she is a dog and cat person. To me she was a hidden gem in the Aiken community and finding her at Rotary was a treat.
