His greatest interest is in combining traditional Chinese healing and western medicine to maximize holistic health and wellness. He began his professional career on the Treasure Coast as a pharmacist. His training included Chinese medicine based on the principle of harmony and balance between yin and yang, 2 polar opposites.

His blending of Eastern and Western medicines allow him to provide proven healing techniques as well as work with modern medical specialists throughout the treasure coast. He treats neurological, respiratory, digestive orders as well as mental and emotional illnesses.
