Brooke Skelley is currently the Director of Marketing & Communications for the Tampa Bay Super Bowl LV Host Committee. In this role, she is responsible for the production and distribution of committee messaging as well as the lead contact for several NFL executives, television network leads, and media partners. A graduate of Clemson University's Communication Studies Program, Skelley worked as an intern for the Clemson Athletic Department during her senior year after spending the previous summer working in Los Angeles as a public relations intern for one of the top consulting agencies in the film and entertainment industry, Lisa Taback Consulting. After graduation, Brooke spent five seasons on the team side of the NFL as a member of the public relations staff for the Carolina Panthers followed by the Tampa Bay Buccaneers. Over the course of her career in the NFL, her responsibilities included assisting the media by facilitating interviews for players and coaches to handling all accreditation for media outlets, visiting team and production crews for both home and away games. She also assisted with press release messaging for both corporate partnerships and community outreach. Brooke looks forward to continuing to expand upon her knowledge and familiarity with the Tampa Bay community in her role with the host committee. During her time with the Buccaneers, she worked closely with many community leaders and both local and national media to promote and bring awareness to not only what was happening on the field, but in the community as well, and she looks forward to continuing to do so on the way to Tampa Bay's fifth Super Bowl."
