Technology Inc., introduced John Benkert, Owner and Director of Strategic Development at Cigent. John served in the Air Force for 20 years and then with the NSA for 20 years. His company's motto is make cybersecurity a habit! His company provides cybersecurity both for work and home environments. Hackers are people looking to find vulnerabilities in computer networks in order to install harmful software and/or view and steal data. Hackers have been doing this since the 1960s. 60 to 70% of all data breaches are due to human errors. John cited numerous serious data breaches including Target (40 million credit cards compromised due to malware installed on online billing system) and the United States Office of Personnel Management (China obtained government employee information using malware), Riviera Beach and Lake City in Florida losing $1 million between them due to a ransomware attack. John warned against opening emails coming from addresses you don't recognize which contain out of date information gleaned from public/open-source information. He also warned against Wi-Fi harvesting hardware concealed within unsolicited gifts sent to you in the mail.

FYI : "Cigent launched a program called Cigent for Networks (C4N) in SWFL. We are offering affordable cyber threat assessments aimed especially at small and medium sized businesses. Pricing starts at $500 for businesses with fewer than 20 employees.

Our tech experts install the patented C4N device on a customer's network, which then monitors and searches for nefarious activity for about a week. At the end of the assessment period, we generate a confidential report that shows the current threats and risks detected by the C4N platform and details the threats it would have blocked. At that point, the customer can determine if they would like to keep the device to protect their network or return it. If the customer decides to keep the C4N platform, we will credit the Cyber Threat Assessment cost to their first year's subscription. It is an affordable and robust solution for the biggest hacker targets today -- small and medium sized businesses. One of the biggest strengths of our Cigent for Networks product is that we monitor the device and threats, so the customer doesn't have to. This is a huge benefit for small and medium sized businesses because they don't need to hire or train any staff to manage the product! You can see more about the product on our website: <https://c4n.cigent.com/> and I have attached the brochure with greater detail on how the service works. Let me know if you have any questions! Dee Fabry attended RLI I in Orlando this past week-end. One down 2 to go.

Jim Fabry completed RLI III in Orlando this past week-end and graduated. Graduate programs?

Past message from Tam - (4-Way Test. We as a club can recite the 4-way test correctly and I wonder why someone has to prompt!)

Meeting adjourned at 1:08 P.M.

News Editor – Joe DeSimone made notes and sent to Jim F for inclusion in newsletter.
