Connect & Create

Sean Fedorko, Cofounder of Radius CoWork would like to extend Rotary Members an invitation to the Radius CoWork and Erie Reader Open House.

Radius CoWork has passed their 1yr anniversary and are excited that a coworking space is surviving and thriving downtown. The Erie Reader (another young, passionate Erie institution) will be joining as well. Anyone is welcome to attend and meet the founders, staff, members, and supporters of Radius and the Reader. Drinks will be available, music, an art gallery, and catering.

"We are passionate about bringing business back into the city, nothing would align more with that mission that having the entrepreneurs of the Rotary Club join us to celebrate the success."

- Sean Fedorko

Guess Who?!

My Great Grandfather (mother's side) owned the oldest trademark that included the words "super market", founded in 1933. It claimed to be the first grocery store to use the name "supermarket" and later received a plaque from the States Historical and Philosophical Society designating the store as "Its First Supermarket". The store had many innovations as well as lower prices than independent grocers. This appealed to Depression era shoppers. His was the first chain to use florescent lighting and provide grocery carts for customers. Fully self-service, with wide aisles, the stores had a variety of nationally recognized brands (rather than private label merchandise), which saved money for its customers. His stores were the first to price every item so customers could see exactly what the cost was.....Who Am I?!!

Answer: Mark's Louis
