The program was led by Rotarian Kathleen Martin. Kathy reviewed a long list of potential service projects that the club is considering sponsoring for fiscal year 2013. Those Rotarians sponsoring each of the service projects had the opportunity to speak about the project. Following the presentation Kathy handed out a ballot and asked each member to vote for the projects they support. Each Rotarian has 35 votes to distribute among the 15 proposed project; can assign from 1 to 5 votes on each project; but, cannot assign more than 5 votes to a single project. Rotarians should return the ballot to Kathy in person, or can email the ballot to: kmartin@vinsonhall.org.

Happy Talk

Happy Talk, led by Rotarian Pam Danner

- 1) Dale Lazar was happy to have completed moving his daughter into a new apartment at Columbia University, and happy that while in New York City was able to see Porgy and Bess.
- 2) Rick Neldon was happy that his son was in London, England this week with the Clemson University Symphonic Band attending the Summer Olympics and playing at several Olympic venues.
- 3) Bob Koenig happily reminded us about the upcoming Washington Nationals game for End Polio Now, and said he had sold 50 tickets.
- 4) Joe Cacciapaglia (visiting Rotarian from Vienna, VA) works in the tree business and was happy that he was able to swap work for a Harley Davidson. Way to go Joe!
- 5) Bob Rosenbaum had quite a trip to Canada. There, he discovered that his wife had memorized all 16 numbers of his credit card and could recite them from memory. (Better get a new card Bob.) He was celebrating the 150th anniversary of British Columbia (not his 150th anniversary as some has assumed).
- 6) John Rosenbaum went along with Dad and took a helicopter tour of a glacier. He also watched a sled-dog race.
- 7) Todd Dempsey spent a happy week in Edesto Beach, South Carolina, celebrating the 80th birthday of his mother-in-law with the entire family.
- 8) Tin Lay Raschid, after fasting for the past 10 days, was most disappointed to learn that she had not lost any weight.
