Jason Spenser of the McLean Patch presented the program about the McLean Patch. It has 30 sites in Northern VA; and he is in charge of the McLean and Arlington sites. These online sites are unique in that readers can contribute in different ways from the traditional news sources. In fact, Jason, while at our meeting, posted a picture of the presentation of the check from the Foundation to the Falls Church Children's Center. However, anyone can post news online. Community members can also have their own blogs on the Patch, e.g. McLean Momma. There is no longer a requirement for approval prior to posting; but there is a computer filter and they do post- posting reviews. If there is a problem with a posting, it will be removed. You can access this site by going to mclean.patch.com.
