Each district has experts with technical skills and subject matter experience. DISCs identify these local experts and build a resource base, (District Resource Network) that helps clubs develop higher quality, sustainable projects. Experts consist of local Rotarian or Rotary alumni who serve as mentors to clubs early in the project planning process.

DISCs are responsible for:

- Motivating club and district involvement in international service;
- Promoting greater awareness of resources and strategies for project planning, and evaluation, implementation;
- Identifying key local subject matter experts, and;
