Please Join us this Thursday as we hear from Sean Hughes, City of Powell Economic Development Administrator. In addition to his economic development experience, Hughes has 23 years of marketing and communication experience and 12 years of association management experience. Many of these years were spent in higher education. Former President of the Board of Directors for the Ohio Economic Development Association, Hughes has been instrumental in helping to reshape and strengthen the fairly young association. In his roles as President and Immediate Past President, he also worked with JobsOhio to create the idea of a statewide certification program for Ohio's economic development professionals which will see its first class this March. He is also a Board Director with the Mid-Ohio Development Exchange. Hughes has counseled nearly 1,000 small businesses or entrepreneurs, adding to a holistic economic development approach. Hughes currently lives with his wife Sue Ellen and daughter Mackenzie outside of Powell.
