About Moira Scott Payne:

Moira Scott Payne, President of the Kentucky College of Art + Design (KyCAD) is an arts educator with a Fine Art background who works on national and international strategic arts education partnerships and initiatives. Moira's career in arts education spans 30 years and has enabled her to navigate understandings of audience, policy, community, and the professionalization of the arts contributing to the burgeoning creative and cultural industries.

Artists are finding new roles that include leading change and innovation across many sections. KyCAD is the only independent (4 year) college of art and design in the commonwealth offering a BFA in studio art.

Art schools reflect culture and Moira's talk will present ways that the contemporary artist might work as they address the topics and concerns of our time. Young people express their ambitions, their hopes and their dreams through art practice, film, sonic and visual cultures and a thriving college of art and design is symptomatic of a city on the move. The creative and cultural industries are economic drivers that become part of not only a city's success but also of a country's GDP, identity, wellbeing and pride.

October 3rd Meeting Recap:

At the October 3rd meeting of the Rotary Club of Louisville, Rotarians were given the special opportunity to have a sneak peek of the brand new Waterfront Botanical Gardens. Greg Braun, Vice Chair of the Board of Officers and Co-Chair of Resource Development kicked off the presentation by giving away 5 memberships to Waterfront Botanical Gardens. Kasey Maier, President, covered the process that has taken place to transform "Landfill to Landmark" to include fundraising, landscape challenges and the anticipated "next phases" of development. Jamie Burghardt, Director of Horticulture and Education, finished the presentation by discussing the variety of plants, flowers and architecture that are featured at Waterfront Botanical Gardens.
