Program for January 30

Margaret O'Donnell and Amy Youngblood

"The Detention Lottery" Acting Troupe

Margaret O'Donnell

Since 2018, The Detention Lottery has delivered a wallop to audiences across the state and online with its stark exploration of an immigration detention courtroom. We see the detainees torn out of their daily lives and hustled into the cold, byzantine realm known as our judicial system. As one judge put it, "life-and-death decisions are made in a traffic-court setting."

Today we will see the story of one of the seven detainees, a businessman trapped by new laws and old accusations. Tom Heller will play the detainee Jose Miguel Suarez, and Rick Taylor the Private Attorney. Both the judge (Karin Tolgu) and the DHS Attorney (Luz Metz) are practicing immigration attorneys who will conduct the question and answer afterward.

Margaret O'Donnell is a Seattle-based playwright and poet. Her work explores the migration of peoples, the resilience of the elderly, the urgent impacts of climate change on all living creatures, the byzantine workings of the US legal and justice system, and the intricacies of human relationships. She is a retired immigration attorney who represents asylum seekers pro bono.

Amy Youngblood

The Detention Lottery is award-winning selection at the Kennedy Center's 2021 American College Theatre Festival. The audio version of the play will be part of the International Radio Drama Festival in Canterbury, England in March 2026.

Amy Youngblood directs performances of The Detention Lottery, bringing actors, activists, and advocates to fill the cast roles. She learned professional theater systems through the Public Works program at the Seattle Rep, which added to decades of stagework for art and fundraising. She believes in theater and justice for all.

New Member Induction (by Rosemary Aragon)

My Fellow University Rotarians, today we are inducting our first new member of 2026.

Please meet Johan Wikman. His sponsor is Rick Jones.

Johan was born and raised in Stockholm Sweden. His education has been through real-world experience, independent study, and years of building companies—not formal university training. He is curious by nature and always has been interested in people's stories...and eagerly shares his own story with anyone who is interested. This spills over into his professional career where he spent the last 25 years leading high performing software development teams in everything from small startups to public companies. He has a passion for developing innovative, user-centric solutions.

Rosemary Aragon introduces Johan Wikman

Building community--starting good conversations:

Johan spent most of his working career in the San Francisco Bay Area. He is a recent (2 years) transplant to the Pacific Northwest. How did he get here? A relationship and good timing. Two weeks after he quit his prior job, his friend of 36+ years, Peter O'Dell, called. He wanted to start a new business and wanted Johan to join him. Johan told me they have a vision of creating online villages...like the villages when villages and relationships worked. The wanted to connect people based on their interests...making introductions that might lead to friendships.

Johan is the co-founder of and CTO at Perdata.ai, where they build Conexus, a platform that brings people together and helps communities and events spark real connections and meaningful conversation. The Conexus app connects people through shared passions. Users share a small amount about themselves. Data stays private. It helps people skip small talk, moving past weather and traffic. People start with ideas that matter.

During the market research and the early Conexus prototypes, Johan and Peter learned how deeply social isolation affects health and lifespan. That led to their writing a book on friendship and community--Dying for friendship and community--which is scheduled for release in early February. I think we'll find that an interesting read.

Perdata.ai is in the early stages of development and is working with small communities, including Del Ray Dads in Alexandria. They are in active conversations with several larger organizations focused on building strong communities. Last year they made a few pivots to focus more on communities rather than one-off events.

Something you wouldn't know about Johan: He is a passionate ultra-runner (i.e., Long Distance Running). He says endurance shapes how he works and thinks. In 2018 he finished the Western States 100. It is widely regarded as one of the hardest 100-mile races...on a course running from Squaw Valley to Auburn through the Sierra Nevada. One hundred miles. One day. Please talk to him about this.

Johan, we welcome you to University Rotary and hope you engage with us socially (e.g., foodie dinners and beer/hamburgers at Magnuson) and lend a hand to our local and international efforts. Our organization fits your business: building community and starting good conversations.

Community Service Project Report-Bilingual Books (by Ellenore Angelidis)

In the 2024-25 Rotary year, our club's Community Service Committee awarded the NGO Open Hearts Big Dreams a grant of $10,000 to provide 1,000 bilingual books for Seattle children. Fifteen schools, libraries and not for profits were given donated books.

The purpose of this project is to provide diverse bilingual children's early reader books within the U-District Community. This allows diverse families with children to see themselves represented in the books they read and will give all families the opportunity to learn about either their own or new cultures to create more empathy, understanding, peace, and global citizens.

Reports were requested and received. The feedback was universally positive. Solid Ground provided feedback shared below that was repeated by the other beneficiary organizations which included Bellwether Housing, Ethiopian Community in Seattle, AKIN, University of Washington, and The Children's Center at Burke Gilman Gardens.

Solid Ground Washington: What was the impact with the community you serve?

Sand Point families expressed gratitude for receiving books that they could read with their children in their native language – many shared that it allowed them to connect with their children through stories from their own upbringing and cultural roots. “It was powerful to see families bond over storytelling in such a familiar and meaningful way,” shared Scott Moorhouse, our Family & Children's Program Manager. One Sand Point parent also told us that their child, who usually avoids reading, has asked to be read to from the books in their home language for the first time in weeks – sparking a new nightly routine for the family.

At Broadview, Open Hearts Big Dreams books are a source of comfort for families who are navigating big transitions – from living with an abuser, to living homeless, to reaching safe housing at Broadview. Families love coming to our onsite library and picking out books to read together – and for families who speak a first language other than English at home, Open Hearts Big Dreams is an incredible gift that allows us to offer these parents the same opportunities to read stories that reflect their languages and cultures. We've seen that these books are especially impactful for kids and parents still learning English – allowing them to read in and practice both of their languages and connect with other family members through shared stories. One of our Broadview Children's Advocates shared: “It makes it easier for us as advocates to build relationships when families feel seen and understood. I have heard only positive reviews of the stories that have been told and how the families were so entertained!”

As a part of this grant, OHBD donated 250 books in Ethiopia.

Here is the impact report from a recipient: Addis Guzo has been working with and for people with disabilities in Ethiopia since 2011. We actively include the donated books from Open Hearts Big Dreams as an integrated component of our programming. Additionally, we send books home so that the whole family, including siblings, can benefit from them. Most of the children who receive treatment at Addis Guzo have not been read to before and these are typically the first children's books in their homes.

Education Committee - Book Drive and Trip to Ethiopia (by Ellenore Angelidis)

Children's Book Drive – on-going.

Photos from Udist CSC book donation grant 2024/25. The positive feedback from that grant reenforced the power of getting quality books in the hands of all kids.

- Did you know there are book deserts in the Seattle area? I learned this recently and we can do something to change that.
- We identified two organizations that are doing great work in this area and will provide more details on those collaborations in the near future.
- One need identified we can immediately meet are high quality children's books, especially featuring diverse characters or themes as well as bilingual. Think gift. I will be collecting at upcoming meetings.
- Please let me know if you are bringing so I can have someone take if I am not there. ellenore@openheartbigdreams.org

Trip Opportunity -- Ethiopia – 2026.

Photos below from recent book donation in area where kids have been out of school for two years because of conflict. One girl shared that these books and opportunity to continue her education gave her hope.

- Ezra and I are tentatively planning to take a small group back to Ethiopia in October/November 2026.
- We will be visiting our collaborating Rotary clubs and new and in progress reading rooms there as well as seeing a bit of Ethiopia.
- Travel is more restricted now for those who have traveling before 2020. I will share more details in the coming months.
- Reach out to me if interested at ellenore@openheartbigdreams.org

Message from District Governor Jeff Borek

Three quick highlights of new ways you can start off the new calendar year with compassion, service and a bit of fun.

#1 — Washington Flood Relief – Website Now Live

Our District 5030 Washington Flood Relief website is now live and ready to support those across our area impacted by recent December flooding. Thousands of residents and hundreds of homes and farms across western Washington were badly damaged, and tens of thousands were evacuated due to levee failures, power outages, and atmospheric river rains. Please visit, share widely, and consider how your club or individual members can contribute to relief and recovery efforts across our state. Many thanks to District Governor-elect Patricia Chapman and her Chief of Staff, Mike, for leading a team from their home club along with other 5030 Rotarians across our area to help those in need.

A link to the website can be found on our main District landing page: <https://district5030.org>

#2 — Bloodworks NW Code Red – Urgent Need

Bloodworks NW has issued a Code Red alert. All eligible Rotarians, especially if you are Type O or a platelet donor who is feeling healthy, are urged to schedule an immediate appointment at a donor center or blood drive near you. If just 1% more people donated, we could stabilize the blood supply and prevent this emergency from worsening. This is a simple, lifesaving way to serve right now. Remember to mention our group code 5030 when you check in. Bloodworks NW is a Platinum Sponsor of the 5030 District Conference in Walla Walla later this spring.

Learn more and book your appointment at <https://bloodworksnw.org/?nab=1>

#3 – Anti-Bullying Program & Rotary Social at Taproot Theatre

The Rotary Education Interest Group of RCOS and Taproot Theatre Company invite Rotarians from all local clubs to a special anti-bullying program and social gathering on February 10 at 5:00 PM at Taproot Theatre. For this evening, the entire theatre will be open exclusively for Rotarians, with light snacks, drinks, and plenty of time to connect and discuss our shared commitment to serving youth in our local communities. All Rotarians are warmly encouraged to attend, bring potential new members and guests, and ensure your fellow club members are aware. Come curious—and expect the unexpected. Tickets are $20 per person, space is limited, and early registration is encouraged.
