Rotary Club of East Fresno Hosts Uzbekistan Team

By Marilyn Behringer

The Rotary Club of East Fresno recently hosted a six-member delegation from Uzbekistan. The purpose of their visit was to study water resource management. What better place to do that than California? The trip was sponsored by the Congressional Office for International Leadership under the United Nations' One World Program in cooperation with Rotary International. The delegation was composed of Uzbekistan professionals ranging in age from 24 to 58. Most of them had careers that dealt with water resource management, and most of them spoke some English. The delegates were all housed in the homes of East Fresno Rotary members. Past presidents Gary Dunn and Marilyn Behringer planned and led the seven-day study tour.

When I was 17 years old, my French teacher did something that changed my life: she offered me the chance to go on an exchange with a French family for two weeks. As one of two children in a single parent family, I would never have been able to make this trip without her assistance. For the cost of a plane ticket, I was able to visit Paris, the French Riviera and the Alps! We did have to host two 14-year-old boys (ugh) at our home in Santa Clara County, but that was a small price to pay for the chance to eat real croissants, visit historic Roman ruins, and meet real French people. Because of this trip, I grew a heart for international experiences.

As we celebrate April's Rotary International theme—Environment Month—it's the perfect opportunity to reflect on how membership and engagement play a vital role in our ability to protect and preserve our planet. Just as our environment thrives with diversity, so does Rotary. The more diverse our members, the stronger our collective ability to tackle the pressing issues of today, from climate change to sustainability.

Pollinate the Planet: Rotary's Role in Environmental Stewardship

By Bruce D. Mackey

PDG, 5230 Foundation Chair

April is Environment Month on the Rotary International calendar. When discussing "The Environment" lots of folks instantly believe "there's nothing I can do... the problem is too big... too complex... too much for someone like me to make a meaningful impact..." Big problems can feel paralyzing. It's easy to look at the scale of environmental challenges and think, 'What difference can I make?' But the truth is, you don't have to do everything—you just have to do something. And that something, no matter how small, is where real change begins.

Honoring the Phenomenal Women of Rotary – A Tribute for International Women's Day and Environment

By Belinda I. Daguio

Since March 8th was International Women's Day, I couldn't go too far into April without taking a moment to honor the phenomenal women of Rotary. This month, as we also recognize Rotary's focus on the environment, it feels especially fitting to spotlight women who not only lead but nurture, protect, and serve both people and planet with unwavering passion.
