7th largest ranch in the United States. While growing up Kisa rode and showed horses and raised cows for the 4-H. She decided that ranch life wasn't for her, and after attending college moved to the city. She still attends the annual Cousin's Camp in July, which is a family reunion. She talked about how the ranch's goal is to raise healthy cattle in a sustainable way, and be good stewards of the land. Her father managed the ranch for 60 years until he retired.
