Program: Our program today was our very own Francisco Cossio. Francisco is a full-service Financial Advisor with LPL Financial. He currently holds 7 different licenses. Francisco told us about the grueling tests he had to pass. He had to be sponsored before he could take the tests, and Union Bank sponsored him while he worked there. He not only had to learn about the financial side of investing but also the legal side. He said the classes were very difficult. Out of the 14 students in his class, only 3 passed. He and the other students were isolated and secluded and only allowed to see or talk to his family on the weekends. He's been in finance for about 20 years, starting as a teller, then a loan officer, and working his way up. He said the investment world is very different. Union Bank transferred him to La Quinta, then Covid hit and they changed their investment services to only a call center out of Arizona instead of personalized service. His clients wanted to stay with him, so he started working for LPL Financial. He is currently licensed in 3 states: California, Arizona, and Nevada. He works from home, answering calls and texts from his clients at all hours. Thank you, Francisco, for sharing your journey with us!
