12:00 noon Program:

Nick Leopoulos, Executive Director, The Thea Foundation

Nick Leopoulos is the Executive Director of the Thea Foundation, a statewide nonprofit dedicated to advocating the importance of the arts in the development of Arkansas's youth. Nick has dedicated more than a decade of service to championing the arts in Arkansas, establishing the foundation's Arts Reconstruction program in 2013 which has provided more than $1 million in professional development and material goods to Arkansas art teachers. In that same year, Nick created the Art Department, a quarterly exhibition series providing visibility to an incredibly diverse collective of artists from around the state. Since 2002, the Thea Foundation has awarded more than $2.5 million in scholarships to hard working and creative Arkansas students, and has ensured the delivery of more than $1 million in creative materials to Arkansas teachers K - 12. Nick is a passionate advocate for the arts and has worked with groups across the country including Americans for the Arts, the Arts Education Partnership, George Rodrigue Foundation for the Arts, and Savannah College of Art and Design in support of providing art education for the youth in Arkansas.

An alumnus of Savannah College of Art & Design, Nick holds a Masters in Arts Administration and a BFA in photography.
