Errin Stanger, Founder and CEO
Providence Park

Errin Stanger is the Founder and CEO of Providence Park, a non-profit created to serve the chronically homeless in Central Arkansas. The Providence Park neighborhood is specifically designed to provide permanent, supportive, and sustainable housing to chronically homeless individuals in a community-driven environment.

Prior to creating Providence Park, Errin served as the Director of the Arkansas Regional Innovation Hub, Arkansas' first and largest makerspace. She, along with an incredible team, helped create and foster STEAM educational opportunities, workforce development initiatives and community impact that has grown the maker movement in Arkansas.

Errin has a graduate degree in Biology and a minor in Urban Studies from Rhodes College and more than 20 years of experience in non-profit development, community engagement, and fostering community. She has served as the producer of the North Little Rock Maker Faire, a National Make48 competition, and has had the honor of serving as the 2006 Race for the Cure Chairmen in memory of her sister Kelli Binsky.

She serves as a board member for the Argenta Downtown Council, ACANSA Arts Festival, North Little Rock Chamber, the Big Dam Bridge Foundation, and the University of Arkansas Pulaski Technical College Foundation Board. She has previously served as the 2023-24 Microsoft TechSpark Fellow.

Errin and her husband, Scott Stanger, a retired Colonel of the United States Army, live in North Little Rock with their six children.

Four-Way Test

The Four Way Test of the things we think, say, or do...

1. Is it the truth?
2. Is it fair to all concerned?
3. Will it build goodwill and better friendships?
4. Will it be beneficial to all concerned?
