Membership Committee Report â€” Merlin and Paul (PowerPoint provided)

- o Highlights of the presentation:
- o Sharon, Monica, Norm, Denise, Merlin and Paul committee
- o Not only the committeeâ€™s responsibility, but all of ours
- o As you are moving about your day, you may meet someone that would be a good fit, so think about asking them to join us, especially on the last meeting of the month!
- o Shared the PowerPoint of the process for becoming membership
- o Mentorships are important for the new members, so they have a relationship that keeps them involved and can answer questions.
- o Recruit and Retain members
- o Budget includes: Shirts, vests, stationery, and business cards
- o The new vests were shown for approval
- o Board must approve all of this plan
- o A bag of goodies from Sharon for everyone!
- o Be consistent in your asking!

Stay to help count ducks after the meeting!

Turn tickets and money into Denise. Make certain that the first one is completely filled out and the rest have 2 information points (name and phone number).

Thought for the Week

By Gene Klcó on Saturday, July 1, 2023

â€œHe/she who seeks a friend without a fault remains without one.â€

Joke of the Week

So a middle aged couple is having a serious conversation after finding out that the husband will die soon at a very early age from a fatal illness:

Husband: After I die, do you think you will date again?

Wife: Yes, I when we dated that was an important way for me to grow socially, to feel like part of society and get to know people.

H: Do you think you will ever marry again?

W: Our marriage has been a source of companionship and real joy, so I might decide to get married again.

H: Would you give your new husband my new Lambourghini sports car?

W: I know how great and free you felt when you sped around in your sports car, so I might let any hypothetical new husband have the car.

H: Do you think you would give your new husband my 690 piece super deluxe tool set?

W: You made so many projects and fixed so much with those tools, and I would hope that my new husband would do the same.

H: What about my golf clubs?
