Recent Programs

Ken Bikoff is a 1997 graduate of Indiana University with a degree in journalism. He has spent 20 years covering the NFL, NBA and college basketball. He also co-hosts the postgame call-in show for IU football. Ken spoke to us Monday, February 1 about his book, Hoosier Beginnings. He shared a few humorous stories in the book, including how the IU athletic teams got the name Hoosiers and the stolen Old Oaken Bucket caper of 1930. The book focuses on the years 1867-1930. Hoosier Beginnings is available through Amazon, Barnes and Noble and the IU Press website.

Chris Fogle joined us Monday, February 8 and talked about his role as Purdue Extension Educator – Health and Human Services. There are four components to this program: food, family, money and health. Chris’s specialty is health and wellness. COVID prevented Chris from doing in person presentations so he turned to newsletters, social media and radio programs to stay connected. He also became very proficient at making informative videos, evidenced by the one he showed us documenting his recent diagnosis with type 1 diabetes. Chris can be reached at foglec@purdue.edu or 812-663-8388.

Club Assembly

We will have a club assembly on Monday, February 22. COVID is preventing us from having our euchre tournament this year. (We were very lucky to get it in last year on February 29 before COVID shut everything down.) In order to raise money for Special Olympics and other charities we annually support, we will be mailing letters to last year’s sponsors asking for their support again this year. Last year’s players will also be sent letters giving them the date for the tournament in 2022 and inviting them to donate also. The letters will be prepared for mailing at the meeting.

Next Program

Mayor Joshua Marsh will join us Monday and give us a first hand look at his State the City video.
