It is the right to counsel. Basic human needs like access to food, shelter, health care, and safety may be at stake in civil legal cases. Civil legal aid organization provide free legal assistance to people who cannot afford an attorney (usually 125% of the FPL). What is the Medical Legal Partnership Movement (MLP)? It was first created in Boston in 1993 where a pediatrician Barry Zuckerman, MD hired lawyers to work with doctors at the Boston Medical Center to address legal needs that impacted child health. There are currently over 292 MLP sites around the country serving children, seniors, veterans, immigrants, people who were formerly incarcerated, pregnant women and individuals with cancer. The MLP is a healthcare delivery model which addressed health-harming legal needs that disproportionately affect people living in poverty. Healthcare and legal professionals use training, screening and legal care to improved patient and population health. Legal care is integrated into the delivery of healthcare with deeply engaged health and legal partners at both front-line and administrative levels. The Dayton MLP for Kids provides consultations, coaching and training for providers and free legal services for patients and families (through referrals). They assist with legal advice, preparing legal documents, representation in court, and with systemic advocacy. Social Determinants of Health are the conditions in which people are born, grow, live, work and age. These circumstances are shaped by the distribution of money,

NEW MEMBER PROFILE

Adam Horseman has called the Dayton area home for nearly his entire life. After graduating from Beavercreek High School, he attended Wright State University, majoring in Athletic Training. He then traded in the cold of Ohio for the sun of Florida, attending the University of Florida, where he worked as an athletic trainer while earning his Master's degree in Exercise and Sport Science. Even though the university was experiencing high levels of athletic and academic success, Adam yearned to return to his roots in Ohio. He came back in 2006 and began his career at Wright State, where he has spent the last 14 years. Recently though, Adam shifted gears and took his passion for helping others and problem solving and began working as an Insurance Consultant for Robert K. Jones Insurance in Kettering. Now, he spends his days building relationships with individuals and local business, using that knowledge to craft insurance solutions to protect the things they value in life.

Adam, his wife Brittany, and their two children (Camden and Jake) reside in Beavercreek, where his wife owns and operates a successful law firm. In their spare time, they serve in their church, shuttle their kids to various sporting events around town, spend time cooking together as a family, and seek out all the hidden gems of this great city!
