ANCIENT HISTORY "FACT OF THE DAY" -

I started the Ancient History "Fact of the Day” segment in honor of my dad, who loved ancient history, so I felt it was appropriate to end my year with an Ancient History fact that specifically reminds me of him.

My dad used to joke quite a bit about our “Viking heritage”, although according to 23andMe, I’m pretty sure we are actually mostly Anglo Saxon. Anyway, he used to read books about famous Viking figures such as Erik the Red and his son, the aptly named Leif Erikson.

In the late spring of 2015 my dad suggested that he, my brother, and I take a “boys trip” to Iceland. To this day, it remains one of my favorite trips, and possibly my most favorite trip of all time.

A lot of the trip consisted of us renting a car, driving around Iceland, enjoying the breathtaking landscape, and eating a lot of burgers. One of the places we saw was the historic site of Thingvellier (think-vet-leer).

Thingvellier is thought to be one of the oldest - if not the oldest - site of parliament in Europe. Parliamentary meetings were held in the area starting in 930 A.D., during the time of the Vikings, with the last meeting held in 1798.

Thingvellir means “assembly fields” or “parliament plains” in English. It is the place where representatives from all over Iceland met annually during summertime to adjudicate laws and settle disputes.

The site is also significant for geological reasons, as it located along the fault line that separates the North American and Eurasian tectonic plates. There is an area there called Silfra, where my brother and dad snorkeled and I scuba dived using dry suits. It was so cold it was snowing out.

SARGE – “Two Truths and a Lie” featuring

President Grant

A lot of $$ was collected today- as most Rotarians doubted that Grant would ever mis-spell a word!

FOUR WAY TEST:

- ...of the things we think, say, or do:
- Is it the TRUTH?
- Is it FAIR to all concerned?
- Will it build GOODWILL and BETTER FRIENDSHIPS?
- Will it be BENEFICIAL to all concerned?
