Speaker: Thursday, November 3, our club enjoyed a presentation by Amy Giannotti, entitled: Great Grandfather's Adventures on the High Seas. Ms. Giannotti, who happens to be Pam Cannon's niece, shared a power point and wove a tale about her Grandfather, Captain Frank, and the adventures beginning when he ran away at 15 to work on a clipper ship. From there he traveled the entire world, worked his way up to Captain, and even survived a shipwreck with his pregnant wife and children. Amy included several Pilot Charts and explained weather and current dynamics. Thank you, Pam, for bringing such an educational and delightful speaker.

Speaking this week will be our own Tim Zoller talking about Solvay Polymers.

As you know, one of my Rotary service projects this year is to support Go Packs. I am planning a service project for Thursday, Nov. 17, 3:00 pm, WCCC. We will be working on two things for Go Packs - a Try Something New take home lesson and we'll be making snowflake ornaments out of salt dough to be used in conjunction with their holiday fundraiser. I will have a sign-up starting this week for the Nov. 17 Go Packs service project and the Jan. 6 Habitat for Humanity project.
