LAST MEETING (March 24, 2023)
Old South Wood Preserving
with Eric Stoll

Picture above President Jason Armbruster, Rotarian Teresa Frazier and Eric Stoll from Old South Wood Preserving, LLC in Summertown. Mr. Stoll founded the company in 2021 and built his wood pressure treatment plant from the ground up over a four and a half month period. Mr. Stoll grew up in an Amish family and has an eighth grade formal education, however his description of how the company's manufacturing facility was conceived, designed, and built suggests an engineering and business knowledge that would match many with advanced college degrees. Customers include lumber yards as far away as Oklahoma and Kansas as well as local customers including Parks Lumber Company. The company employs 16 people and has a manufacturing capacity of eight to ten truckloads per day.

If you find an error in attendance – Absent list, Make-Ups, or would like to know how you stand on attendance. – Please email rclburgsec@charter.net and I'll make the correction promptly.
Thanks, Maria
