Stratton Tingle

Sound Corp

Stratton Tingle is a name known far, wide, and deep in the heartbeat of Chattanooga across many different circles. Ask any number of people and they will know him by his name, his legendary dreadlocks, or the impact he has had on the community at large. He has his fingers in many projects, but these days he focuses most of his energy on SoundCorps.

Stratton began playing guitar at 11 years old and has since then shaped his craft with enough finesse to co-found several now-defunct bands such as Antebellum, Prophets and Kings.

He currently performs as a solo artist as well as with SoCro and appears on occasion with Summer Dregs. With his combined musical and business experience at the Chamber of Commerce, he has been an important advocate for the growth and development of the music industry in Chattanooga by focusing on personal relationships and educating the community.
