March 9, 2021: Sean Lamothe, Regional Director National Wild Turkey Federation

Sean grew up in Roswell, GA and graduated Roswell High School in 2000. Graduating from Georgia Southern University in 2004 with a BA in Business Management, Sean initially pursued a career in sales/management working for a large equipment rental company for seven years. He is an avid outdoorsman, and while working in sales, joined a Ducks Unlimited chapter in the area as a way to support their conservation efforts and network with people who shared a similar passion for the outdoors- which was his introduction to the conservation community and ultimately led to his current career. After several years of volunteering, a position opened up with the National Wild Turkey Federation that allowed Sean to pursue his passion for conservation full time. Sean has been with the NWTF since 2012 and now works with 35-40 volunteer committees across the state as Regional Director for the state of Georgia. The primary focus at the NWTF is conservation fundraising for turkeys and upland habitat and each chapter hosts an annual banquet to support those efforts. In addition to those events, many chapters also award local scholarships, sponsor local youth shooting teams, and hold outdoor events to get new people introduced to the outdoors (mostly aimed at kids, women, and individuals with disabilities) and Sean works with each chapter to plan and execute these activities. Sean is married to his wonderful wife Katie for 10+ years and they have an amazing daughter, Avery (5).
