March 23, 2021: Adam Hammond, Development Director Georgia 4-H Foundation

Adam Hammond is the Development Director for the Georgia 4-H Foundation. Before his time with Georgia 4-H, Adam spent 15 years working as a news anchor for FOX and CBS. During that time, he won three Emmy Awards, and he received Georgia College's Outstanding Alumni Award. Adam's most proud accomplishment from his broadcasting career is working with lawmakers to create legislation called "Andrew's Law," which adds another layer of protection for children in the care of a mentally ill parent.

Adam and his wife Lauren are natives of Oconee and love the community. They have an eight-year-old daughter named Kinney who is in the second grade at Colham Ferry Elementary school, and they attend Watkinsville First Baptist. In addition to Rotary, Adam serves on the board of directors for the Oconee Schools Alumni Association, the Oconee Area Resource Council, and the Oconee Farmland Preservation Ranking Committee.
