Tuesday, August 13th, 2024 - Adam Fouche, Office of Emergency Preparedness and Java Joy

Adam Fouche is the Executive Director of the University of Georgia Office of Emergency Preparedness and Insurance and Claims Management. He oversees a comprehensive emergency management program for the university to save lives, protect property, promote continuity of operations, and reduce the overall effects of large-scale disasters. Adam also manages administration of UGA's insurance and associated claims functions, handling property and casualty insurance needs for over $5 billion in UGA assets across the state. Adam is a 22-year veteran of UGA with most of his career spent at the UGA Police Department. During his time at the police department, he rose to the rank of deputy chief of police and was responsible for the planning, emergency response, and coordination of multiple large events and emergency incidents at UGA. Adam has taught first responders across the state in topics including legal issues, emergency medicine, mental health interventions, active shooter response, and leadership. Adam holds a Bachelor of Arts in Journalism from the UGA Grady College of Journalism and Mass Communication and a Master of Public Safety Administration from Columbus State University. He is a member of the UGA Institutional Review Board, the Georgia 4H Advisory Committee, and the executive leadership board for Project Safe, Inc.
