PROGRAM

James Deal
City of Hope Homeless Ministry

James Deal grew up in Dublin and works with his family business, TV-35. James wears many hats at the television station and loves showing off our community in a positive way by building up businesses in our community and watching them succeed. James also serves as CEO of the City of Hope Homeless Ministry, a ministry James founded 6 years ago after God burdened his heart for the poor and needy. For the past 7 years James has served as an Ambassador for the Dublin-Laurens County Chamber of Commerce. James also serves on the Advisory Board for Teen Challenge Southeast Region. James serves on the Board of Directors for the non-profits ECHO and Laurens County Resources, a part of the Community Service Board of Middle Georgia.

James teaches Sunday School and serves on many committees at Bethlehem Baptist Church, the church that he grew up in. James also does pulpit supply and served as the Interim Pastor for Roddy Baptist Church earlier this year.

Anyone that knows James or has ever come in contact with him or watched him on TV knows how important his faith in Jesus Christ is. His wife Julie will tell you if he's with you for 3 minutes he's going to share Christ with you. James and Julie have 8 grandchildren and he loves nothing more than loving on them and spoiling them rotten. His faith and family are everything to James.

When asked where he gets his zeal for service he will quickly tell you, with a big smile, from his Dad and Mom. They taught me from an early age by example the meaning of service before self. James will tell you that he doesn't deserve any recognition for anything that he has accomplished but he gives all the glory and all the praise to God.
