Jared Benko, who has more than a decade of progressive leadership experience in the Southeastern Conference, began as the leader of the Georgia Southern Athletics Department in April of 2020 after serving as Deputy Director of Athletics/Chief Financial Officer at Mississippi State for nearly four years.

His first year was unprecedented in more ways than one as Benko had to navigate a college landscape altered by COVID-19. The Eagle football team was on of two FBS teams (Alabama) to play 13 games and just one of two (Texas State) to play all 12 regular season contests.

The momentum gained in his first year was carried on to 2021-22 as the department soared to new heights. He led a team that put together a bid that secured an NCAA Baseball Regional, the first in program history and three spring sports all made post-season NCAA play, marking the first time in department history that has happened. Benko also made a national splash with the hiring of former Southern Cal head coach Clay Helton as the Eagles' new head man, a hire that was rated as one of the best in the country by some media.

Each of the past three fiscal years, the Athletic Foundation raised a record number in new pledges and outright gifts, the department has posted a record grade point average, and from a hiring standpoint, Benko has successfully hired 11 head coaches to take over the helms of those programs. The new Anthony P. Tippins Family Training Facility was recently opened and the Jack and Ruth Anne Hill Convocation Center is under construction. With baseball renovations in the near future, the department will have had more than $100 million in new projects since he arrived.

Benko, who hails from Watkinsville, Georgia, earned a bachelor of science in sports studies from Georgia in 2005 and then a master of public administration in Athens in 2007. He has had professional stops at Mississippi State, Auburn, Arkansas and Georgia and also assisted with the Atlanta Falcons and Atlanta Braves.

Benko and his wife, Sarah, have two sons, Hudson and Cooper.
