This Week's Topic: Services Provided By North Florida School of Special Education

Welcome Sally Hazelip - Head of School at North Florida School of Special Education

Sally Hazelip has been the Head of School at the North Florida School of Special Education since 2010. She has been involved in the special needs community in Jacksonville for the past 30 years through her involvement/work with Special Olympics and the ARC Jacksonville. She is passionate about working with individuals with intellectual differences. She currently serves on the board of directors for the ARC Jacksonville. She has four grown children and resides in Jacksonville Beach with her husband Chris.

North Florida School of Special Education (NFSSE) gives students, ages 6-22, with intellectual and developmental differences a place to learn, thrive, and become the best versions of themselves in an innovative academic and therapeutic environment. Young adults, ages 22-40, flourish in NFSSE's postgraduate programs through vocational training, internships, life skills, and more. NFSSE's Berry Good Farms is an urban farm that promotes job training and healthy lifestyles through organic farming and culinary arts. Art with Soul provides budding and experienced artists a place to create and pursue career paths in the visual arts. The campus is anchored by the Delores Barr Weaver Therapeutic Equestrian Center, serving NFSSE students and children and adults with intellectual and developmental differences throughout Northeast Florida. Through these and many more innovative programs, NFSSE sets itself apart as the premier learning environment for students with intellectual and developmental differences in Northeast Florida.
