Military Theme

This Week's Topic: Fleet Readiness

Welcome Timothy Pfannenstein, Department Director, Fleet Readiness Center Southeast

Mr. Timothy Pfannenstein assumed the position of the Fleet Support Team (FST) Site Lead and Department Director at Fleet Readiness Center Southeast (FRCSE) in January 2021. He is responsible for the management of cost, schedule, performance, and technical risk in support of Naval Aviation Program Offices and associated FSTs.

In this capacity, he oversees over 675 personnel on 15 different FST Teams, a Fleet Support Office and a Program Management Division, all of whom support various aircraft, engines and commodities. Mr. Pfannenstein also serves as primary liaison with the FRCSE Commanding Officer, Commander, Fleet Readiness Centers and other FRC Fleet Support Teams in managing workload and developing technical policies.

Mr. Pfannenstein was born and raised in Saint Cloud, Minnesota. He enlisted in the Navy in August 1978 and concluded a 40-year military career in 2018. Among various other assignments, he served as an Aviation Electronics Technician, Aviation Maintenance Officer, Maintenance Material Control Officer, Officer-in-Charge, Program Manager, and completed a major command tour as Executive Officer and Commanding Officer of Fleet Readiness Center Southwest (FRCSW) from 2012-2016.

Mr. Pfannenstein continued in federal service as the NAVAIR Sustainment Group Chief of Staff, where he played a key role in NAVAIR's transition from the Competency Aligned Organization to its newly minted Mission Aligned Organization.

Mr. Pfannenstein holds a Bachelor of Science Degree in Business Management and a Master of Arts Degree in Education. He currently holds an Advanced Certification in Life Cycle Logistics, is certified as a Practitioner in Engineering and Technical Management, and is also a certified Electronics Mechanic Journeyman. He is the recipient of numerous military awards, medals and commendations, most notable of which are the Military Legion of Merit, Stan Arthur Award for Logistics Management Excellence, USS John C. Stennis "Straight Furrow" Award for Leadership, Commander, Naval Air Forces Leadership Award and Naval Air Systems Command Logistician of the Year.

Women Runners in Afghanistan

The Afghan Women Who Were Determined to Run

A seasoned runner might take water and protein bars on a long training run, but girls and women in Afghanistan consider other equipment more essential: knuckle dusters or pepper spray, so that when anybody comes close, they can demonstrate they have something to defend themselves. It's one of the startling details in a 2019 documentary about female runners in the deeply conservative nation.

The film is the culmination of years of work by Martin Parnell, a Rotarian from suburban Calgary, Alberta, and an avid runner. What he calls the greatest adventure of his life began in October 2015 when his wife, Sue, showed him a Guardian article describing the tribulations and triumph of 25-year-old Zainab Hussaini. That year, she became the lone woman to complete Afghanistan's first official marathon.
