What You Missed ...

By Sara Hickey on Sunday, April 11, 2021

Last week, our own John Slater presented some interesting information on functional mobility and how his facility, Body Force Fitness, can help people reach their movement and weight loss goals through physical fitness and nutrition coaching. He has owned this facility for over 10 years now and specializes in large and small group training to assist clients in improving activities of daily living. Their nationally certified coaches are more like friends, building a sense of belonging and accountability. Check out their website for more information at bodyforcefitness247.com
