STEM Program puts theory to test

Brian Wilkerson a teacher at Macon Middle School and Evan, a Macon County homeschooler, discussed the value that the Macon County STEM program and the Macon Bots after-school robotics program bring to students.

Wilkerson said the program puts science and math skills in the hands of students, teaching the concepts in a fun way that engages them.

Evan said he knew he liked robotics and engineering but didn't have the resources available to him at home to create the projects he does with the after-school program.
