Jennifer Love talks about STEM programs in Macon County Schools

Jennifer Love, STEM coordinator for Macon County Schools, joined the Rotary Club of Franklin - Daybreak on the morning of Jan. 16 to let members know about exciting educational activities Macon County students are eligible to participate in. As the STEM coordinator, Ms. Love oversees the Macon Bots robotics program. This program is open to all Macon County students between 7th and 12th grade to apply for. Each year Ms. Love fields a team made up of 20-25 students to compete in robotics and technology competitions. In addition to participating in competitions, team members also take part in experiences such as an upcoming tour of a BMW plant, and host guest speakers from Southwestern Community College and even Roomba Robots. While Ms. Love is currently supplemented by one additional teacher for the program, she stated there is a desperate need for 4-8 additional mentors to help. Ms. Love shared a video with the club documenting her recent students experiences, which can be seen by following the link: <https://youtu.be/cXVbunUjleM?si=gEwin9mLhyORAg5K>

The Rotary Club of Franklin-Daybreak sincerely appreciates the efforts of Ms. Love, and the extraordinary efforts of the Macon County School System for providing such excellent programs for our community's youth.
